Hi Lizbe,

As promised, here is the information that I was thinking of when we were discussing your need for data at our meeting. I'm not sure how helpful either of these pieces will be, but it is free, so it is definitely worth the price.

The first document is an EPA document that cites the American Housing Survey which is conducted by the US Census. Not sure that the document itself will be as helpful as the reference to the Housing Survey. The second attachment is the Rodenticide Registrant Task Force survey of rodenticide use which was posted in the docket in response to the 2007 proposal.

Hope these documents give you a springboard for your ideas.

Best regards,
